“STEAK SHOOT” FUN CONTINUES

Pat Dowd

Another fun night with pleasant, enjoyable friends and family took place Thursday, June 15, as everyone was hoping to win some delicious steaks. Our caller for the night was Mary McCluskey, who kept things moving right along in her own inimitable way.

Winning right away were Sharon Kane, Stephanie Fields, Barb Bopp, and Helen Vura. Not far behind were Bob Fitzgerald, Rita McNeely, Sue Murphy and Susie Cooper.

Set 3 gave steaks to Rita McNeely again, Jean Marie Sabo, Mary Alice Curran, and Jean Marie and Mary Alice again. Set 4 made winners of Jean Walsh, Betsy Grinches, Sue Murphy, and Susie Cooper again. And with that, it was time for intermission, some refreshments, and a chance to buy the cash drawing tickets.

Getting back to the regular games, Mary Alice didn't think she had enough steaks for her next cookout, so she won the first game of Set 5, followed by Vic Szokan, Stephanie Fields again, and Sharon Kane again. But Sharon won in five cards or less and received an extra $5!

Finishing the regular games were winners Bonnie Ayers, Merrie Pyle, Pat David and Helen Vura again. Then we headed into the Bonus rounds.

Happy to win two packages (4 steaks) was Pat David, as was Linda Walsh who won three packages (6 steaks). And taking home the Grand Bonus of a beautiful eye of round roast was Vickie Rowell. And last, but not least, our Cash Drawing winner for the night was Mary Alice Curran who took home an extra $50!

As you can tell, tonight was a night of multiple winners – and it could happen to you. Come join us on the third Thursday of the month for lots of fun and laughter. “Steak Shoot” is held in the Phil Walsh Room. Games begin at 7:30 p.m. Our next session is Thursday, August 17 – come on down!

“Steak Shoot” games are sponsored by the Padraic Pearse Center. Thanks for your support!

BOOKBUZZ

Bonnie Easton

More books that reflect our Irish heritage and culture are showing up on library shelves.

Himself: A Novel by Jess Kidd is a story about a car thief, Mahony, who seeks the truth about his birth. Left on the steps of an orphanage as a baby, he travels to the Irish town where he was born to learn what happened to his mother, but the townsfolk refuse to cooperate. He is forced to search for assistance with some offbeat characters. The story is a dark comic whodunnit.

“For my eighteenth birthday, Father promised me the hand of a handsome young man, which he duly delivered in a glass-bell jar” is the opening line of The Coroner's Daughter: A Novel by Andrew Hughes. The setting is 1816 Dublin. A young nursemaid murders her newborn child and then seemingly commits suicide. The 18 year-old daughter of the coroner dedicates herself to finding the identity of the baby's father who had seduced the tragic young girl.

The Birdwatcher: A Novel by William Shaw is an English police procedural about an officer who doesn't wish to become part of the department's murder team. First, he is too busy with his hobby as a birdwatcher and, secondly, he believes he may have committed a murder in his hometown in Northern Ireland. But he is compelled to help when a fellow birdwatcher from his hometown is found dead. William South is a man of many secrets. Plotlines of past and present cases converge to create a compelling story.

Scott Oden offers a historical fantasy in A Gathering of Ravens. He intertwines the history of the beginning of the spread of Christianity before the Middle Ages with Norse and Celtic myths and legends. Mythical creatures and magic inspire a plot with many twists and turns as the old way conflicts with the new way.

PADRAIC PEARSE BOOK DISCUSSION

On Friday, August 18 at 7:15 p.m., the Padraic Pearse Book Discussion Group will meet to talk about Wonder by Emma Donoghue, who is the bestselling author of Room and Frog Music. When eleven-year-old Anna O'Donnell refuses to eat and appears to be surviving without food, her small Irish village believes it is a miracle. Or is it a hoax? Nurse Lib Wright is assigned to watch the girl to see how she can live without food. A battle between medical science and religion ensues.

Please join us for a lively and friendly discussion. All readers welcome!

Schedule of future events:

September 16: Valiant Gentlemen: A Novel by Sabina Murray

November 17: Ashes of Fiery Weather: A Novel by Kathleen Donohue
